In the event of a teacher's absence for a day or a period of up to four weeks, particularly in classes focused on Economics and/or Business Studies, I am prepared to assume responsibility and maintain the continuity of learning.

- Let me alleviate the pressure of finding a specialist teacher for your senior year 12 and 11 classes by ensuring these students are prepared and motivated to continue their work when the class teacher returns after sickness, a professional development course, or long service leave.
- I am interested in visiting country, regional, or city schools.
- I will employ innovative teaching methods to deliver syllabus content, whether in person at your school or through virtual platforms like Zoom. I aim to ensure that these senior students continue to receive high-quality instruction and engagement during the absence of their regular teacher.

Tim Dixon. Founder of Leading Edge Education / Leading Edge Economics

- "Being a student in Ian Moore's Economics classes was a highlight of my school years. Ian has brought Economics to life for generations of students, a new generation of students can benefit from his passion for his subject."

Julia Anstey, Visiting Academic Fellow, Barker College.

- Ian has a unique way of teaching for deep learning and academic success and is a skilled motivator for teenagers. His textbooks are highly regarded and our students at Barker have benefitted from their wisdom. His enthusiasm for learning and unique ability to help students solve problems and put in place workable study routines is admirable. Ian has the gift of getting alongside even the most recalcitrant teenager to inspire curiosity, motivation, and an internal spark that flows over into other academic areas.
